Annotation: "Delves into the politics of contemporary archaeology in an increasingly complex international environment. The contributors explore the implications of applying the cosmopolitan ideals of obligation to others and respect for cultural difference to archaeological practice, showing that those ethics increasingly demand the rethinking of research agendas. While cosmopolitan archaeologies must be practiced in contextually specific ways, what unites and defines them is archaeologists' acceptance of responsibility for the repercussions of their projects, as well as their undertaking of heritage practices attentive to the concerns of the living communities with whom they work. These concerns may require archaeologists to address the impact of war, the political and economic depredations of past regimes, the livelihoods of those living near archaeological sites, or the incursions of transnational companies and institutions. Describing various forms of cosmopolitan engagement involving sites that span the globe, the contributors take up the links between conservation, natural heritage and ecology movements, and the ways that local heritage politics are constructed through international discourses and regulations" --back cover

Title: Bininj Kunwok : kunwok dja mankarre kadberre=our language, our culture

Publication info: Bininj Gunwok Project, *2014

Physical descrip: 1 online resource : colour illustrations, photographs, map

Abstract: "This website has fully searchable menus containing information in the form of text, images and spoken words in the various languages of the people from this region; also includes information about the culture and environment with English translations. Bininj Gunwok is a name used for a chain of six mutually intelligible dialects which stretch from Kakadu National Park in the Top End of the Northern Territory south to Pine Creek and Manyallaluk, across the Arnhem Land plateau and east to the Mann, Liverpool and Cadell Rivers districts and as far east as some outstations south of Ramingining in central Arnhem Land. Bininj Gunwok is perhaps best known in the anthropological literature by the name of one of its dialects, namely Kunwinjku (spelt 'Gunwinggu' before the development of a standard practical orthography). The terms used by the speakers of each of the six dialects for the name of their particular dialectal varieties are - Kunwinjku, Kuninjku, Gundjeihmi, Kundednjenghmi, Kune and Mayali. The audio tracks were made by Murray Garde for learner's of Bininj Kunwok." [Nawu Njale?-About]
