

AIATSIS

Ngirramanujwal: The Art and Country of Jimmy Pike

Government House Western Australia Digital Media Tool Kit

Key Information:

Join AIATSIS on Noongar Boodja from Tuesday, 30 May to Friday, 2 June, for Ngirramanujwal: The Art and Country of Jimmy Pike at Government House Western Australia.

At the exhibition, you will experience the seasons and weather patterns of Walmajarri Country, Makurra, Parranga, Yitilal and Jutalkarra.

The exhibition is free and open to the public from 10 am-4 pm Tuesday, 30 May to Friday, 2 June, Government House Western Australia.

About Jimmy Pike:

Walmajarri man Jimmy Pike was best known for his paintings and marker works, many of which were reproduced on textiles, garments and screen prints through his collaboration with Desert Designs. He went on to achieve international recognition for his art, exhibiting nationally and internationally.

Important Links

Jimmy Pike Exhibition Page: <https://aiatsis.gov.au/whats-new/events/ngirramanujwal-jimmy-pike>

Ngirramanujwal book: <https://shop.aiatsis.gov.au/products/ngirramanujwal>

Ngirramanujwal Tote Bag: <https://shop.aiatsis.gov.au/products/ngirramanujwal-tote-bag>

Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/AIATSIS>

Instagram @aiatsis_

Twitter: @AIATSIS

LinkedIn: <https://au.linkedin.com/company/australian-institute-of-aboriginal-and-torres-strait-islander-studies>

Hashtags

#AIATSIS #JimmyPike #Ngirramanujuwal #GovernmentHouseWA #JimmyPikeExhibit #AIATSISart #AboriginalStudiesPress #ASP

Suggested social media content

Copy

Post 1

Get immersed in the latest exhibition from AIATSIS.

Join AIATSIS on Noongar Boodja from Tuesday, 30 May, to Friday, 2 June, for Ngirramanujuwal: The Art and Country of Jimmy Pike at Government House Western Australia.

Walmajarri man Jimmy Pike was best known for his paintings and marker works, many of which were reproduced on textiles, garments and screen prints through his collaboration with Desert Designs. He went on to achieve international recognition for his art, exhibiting nationally and internationally.

At the exhibition, you will experience the seasons and weather patterns of Walmajarri Country, Makurra, Parranga, Yitilal and Jutalkarra.

We look forward to showcasing Pike's works to you. The exhibition is free and open to the public from 10am - 4pm Tuesday, 30 May to Friday, 2 June, at Government House Western Australia.

Secure your copy of Ngirramanujuwal before seeing the exhibition on Noongar Boodja now: <https://shop.aiatsis.gov.au/products/ngirramanujuwal>

Get your own Ngirramanujuwal tote bag now: <https://shop.aiatsis.gov.au/products/ngirramanujuwal-tote-bag>

Learn more about the exhibition here: <https://aiatsis.gov.au/whats-new/events/ngirramanujuwal-jimmy-pike>

Post 2

Plan your experience now.

Ngirramanujwal: The Art and Country of Jimmy Pike at Government House Western Australia from 10am - 4pm Tuesday, 30 May to Friday, 2 June explores the seasons of Walmajarri.

Here's a sneak peek of the seasons on display.

Makurra (cold/dry season) Makurra is a quieter time, a stark contrast to the frantic activity of the previous season, as some lizards, snakes and other creatures retreat underground to wait out the season in hibernation. Dingos also dig their burrows and patiently await the birth of their litters.

Parranga (hot season) Communities who have spent makurra apart reunite. Ngurrara (Country) becomes louder with the voices of creatures big and small as the fruit begins to grow on trees. Amongst the sand, tiny ants work tirelessly, building towers from collected seeds.

Yitilal (rainy season) comes as fierce winds make their way back to ngurrara, storm clouds can be seen from several miles away, and the air is thick with electricity, bringing with them the long-awaited rains.

As Jutalkarra (green-grass season) is born, it is lush and bursting with colour and life. The Country is overflowing with water at this time. Rocky escarpments that long sat untouched are now covered in the wet, muddy footprints of busy creatures that move about freely.

Secure your copy of Ngirramanujwal before seeing the exhibition on Noongar Boodja now: <https://shop.aiatsis.gov.au/products/ngirramanujwal>

Get your own Ngirramanujwal tote bag now: <https://shop.aiatsis.gov.au/products/ngirramanujwal-tote-bag>

Learn more about the exhibition here: <https://aiatsis.gov.au/whats-new/events/ngirramanujwal-jimmy-pike>

Post 3

AIATSIS is coming to Noongar Boodja!

From Tuesday, 30 May to Friday, 2 June, for their latest exhibition, Ngirramanujwal: The Art and Country of Jimmy Pike, at Government House Western Australia.

Walmajarri man Jimmy Pike was best known for his paintings and marker works. At the exhibition, you will experience the seasons and weather patterns of Walmajarri Country, Makurra, Parranga, Yitilal and Jutalkarra.

The exhibition is free and open to the public from 10am - 4pm Tuesday, 30 May to Friday, 2 June, Government House Western Australia.

Secure your copy of Ngirramanujwal before seeing the exhibition on Noongar Boodja now: <https://shop.aiatsis.gov.au/products/ngirramanujwal>

Get your own Ngirramanujwal tote bag now: <https://shop.aiatsis.gov.au/products/ngirramanujwal-tote-bag>

Learn more about the exhibition here: <https://aiatsis.gov.au/whats-new/events/ngirramanujwal-jimmy-pike>