COLLECTION OVERVIEW

Scope and content note

Pat Healy took part in the 1965 Student Action for Aborigines Survey and Demonstration Bus Tour, or, as it became known, the Freedom Ride. This was a bus tour, through some New South Wales country towns, undertaken by a group of students, mainly from the University of Sydney. The aim of the ride was non violent direct action in towns where investigations showed that there was racial discrimination. The students also prepared questionnaires on areas such as health, housing and education, conducting surveys in towns that they visited.

The only Aboriginal passenger for the whole ride was Charles Perkins, one of the leaders of Student Action for Aborigines (SAFA) group which organised the ride. Aboriginal student Gary Williams, also active in SAFA, joined the ride at Bowraville. Healy and Curthoys were both active in SAFA, Healy becoming the SAFA Publicity Officer in September 1964.

The papers relate to the organisation of the Freedom Ride by Student Action for Aborigines (SAFA), the Freedom Ride itself, and other SAFA activities. They consist mainly of correspondence and completed questionnaires and related papers from the survey conducted by the students as part of their Bus Tour.

Provenance

The Freedom Ride papers of Pat Healy were transferred to the Library by Professor Ann Curthoys in March 2003. These papers were used by Curthoys as part of her research material for her book Freedom Ride: a freedom rider remembers (Crows Nest, NSW, 2002) for which she received the AIATSIS Stanner Award for 2003. Curthoys transferred her Freedom Ride Papers (MS 4186) to the Library at the same time.

Related material

For a complete listing of material about the Freedom Ride, and about the Student Action for Aborigines, is held by the Institute and for other related material, consult Mura®, the AIATSIS catalogue, including the Freedom Ride papers of Ann Curthoys held at MS 4186.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Pat Healy comes from a well known political family. Her grandfather, Jim Healy was the former communist leader of the Waterside Workers' Federation. She was not politically active until she attended a civil rights demonstration at the United States Consulate, on 7 May 1964, where she was arrested. Healy was an Arts student at the University of Sydney at the time and obtained her degree from there.
Healy became the Student Action for Aborigines Publicity Officer in September 1964 and she was one of the Freedom Riders. Remaining a political activist, Healy became a member of the Communist Party soon after her return from the Freedom Ride, remaining a member until it ceased to exist in 1991. She has been involved in the Aboriginal and other movements, including the anti-war and the women’s movements, the Gurindji land rights campaign, and, after the birth of her two children, with school and local politics. Healy is an active member of Amnesty International and the Convenor of the NSW Religious Network.

Healy is currently working at the National Research Centre on an ARC funded project on the regulation of farm chemical safety and has worked, as both a researcher and a practitioner, in occupational health and safety and in community and public health.

Healy has qualifications in health program evaluation from Melbourne University, obtained her Master of Applied Science (OHS) from Ballarat University in 1993 and has commenced a PhD thesis in Sociology at the Australian National University.

Healy is married to Brian Aarons and has two daughters.

Series 5 SAFA survey, 1965

As part of the preparation for the Freedom Ride the students prepared a series of questionnaires on areas such as health, housing and education, conducting surveys in towns that they visited.

This series contains completed survey questionnaires, some tabulations of results, a code sheet for the ‘Aboriginal Attitudes’ questionnaire and notes. Completed ‘Aboriginal Questionnaire’ forms comprise the bulk of the series, with some completed ‘Housing’ and one completed ‘Occupations and incomes’ and two blank ‘European’ and two blank ‘Aboriginal’ questionnaire forms. The original tabulation of the ‘Housing; survey is held in the folio box.

There are completed ‘Aboriginal Questionnaires’ from the towns of from Wellington, Gulargambone, Walgett, Moree, Boggabilla, Lismore – Cabbage Tree Island, Bowraville, Kempsey – Green Hills and Kempsey – Burnt Ridge.
There is also a list, received with the collection, of the contents of this series.

There is also a photocopied set of the papers in this series held in the folio box.

Four folders and one folio box
