COLLECTION OVERVIEW

Scope and contents note

This collection comprises the research materials and data collected by a team of researchers recording Aboriginal school children’s English in regions across Western Australia. Documents include project description, correspondence with participating schools, interview materials, class lists, records of interview, transcriptions of tapes, and analyses of interview.

The bulk of the items are originals or duplicates of materials generated in the course of the project. They are mainly typescript, annotated typescript, roneod typescript, or handwritten. There are a few photocopied documents.

Provenance

The collection was deposited in the AIATSIS Collection by Ian Malcolm on 25 August 2015.

Material separated from the collection

51 audiocassettes of approximately 60 minutes each and 1 audiocassette of approximately 90 minutes were transferred to the Audio Collection. These recordings are described in these Audio Finding Aids:

- MALCOLM_I01 (Onslow)
- MALCOLM_I02 (West Kimberley)
- MALCOLM_I03 (East Kimberley)
- MALCOLM_I04 (Mid West)
- MALCOLM_I05 (Goldfields)
- MALCOLM_I06 (Gascoyne)

Archivists note

The interviews were conducted regionally, e.g. at one school in the Metropolitan region, 6 schools in the South West/Greater Southern region, 4 schools in the Goldfields region etc.
This arrangement has been retained in this collection. The audio recordings have been organised into slightly different regional areas, which nevertheless are easily cross referenced to the project regions and the organisation of this print collection. For example, the MALCOLM_I01 (Onslow) recordings relate to Series 8 Onslow Sequel Project, MALCOLM_I02 (West Kimberley) and MALCOLM_I03 (East Kimberley) relate to Series 7 Kimberley.

Capitalized references (e.g. MVD) are to the cassettes containing the material which is here transcribed or analysed. Normally the first one or two letters refer to the location – e.g. MV = Midvale – and the last one or two letters refer to the person who recorded the tape. For example, D = Anne Davidson, M = Ian Malcolm, K or SK = Susan Kaldor, SM = Steve Muecke, KT = Kaye Thies, T = teacher.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

SUSAN KALDOR

The Late Dr Susan Kaldor (1923-2009) introduced the study of linguistics to the University of Western Australia in 1960 in the Department of Classics and Ancient History, later moving to the Department of Anthropology, where she introduced the first full linguistics unit in 1966 and subsequently developed Honours, Masters and Doctoral studies in the field. In 1973, in association with Ian Malcolm, and with funding from the Commonwealth Department of Aboriginal Affairs, she initiated the state’s first, and largest, research study into Aboriginal English, leading to the first descriptions of WAACE (Western Australian Aboriginal Children’s English). The WAACE study was able to continue through extension of the grant until 1979. The collaboration between Kaldor and Malcolm continued with their obtaining of an Education Research and Development Committee Grant to enable a follow-up study on the verb phrase in Aboriginal English, based at Onslow Primary School, to take place in 1981-1982. Kaldor and Malcolm also collaborated in 1987-1988 chairing the Western Australian Education Department’s Working Party for the Development of a Policy for the Teaching of Languages Other than English K to 12, which was to include significant support for Aboriginal language and literacy education.

Susan Kaldor also contributed significantly to the development of language policy in Australia. She was active in the Australian Linguistic Society, which continues to honour her with an annual award. She was a member of the Australian Ethnic Affairs Council and chaired its Multicultural Education Committee from 1977-1981. This led to her authorship of Perspectives on Multicultural Education (1980), which influenced the debate on national language policy which led to the Senate Standing Committee’s Report on a National Language Policy (1984) and the National Policy on Languages (Lo Bianco 1987).

IAN G. MALCOLM

Ian G. Malcolm is currently Emeritus Professor at Edith Cowan University, where he held the inaugural chair in Applied Linguistics from 1991 until his retirement in 2003. He was the first doctoral graduate in linguistics from the University of Western Australia in 1980, with a thesis... on Classroom Communication and the Aboriginal Child (supervised by Susan Kaldor) and he has had visiting appointments to the Guangdong University of Foreign Studies, the University of Virginia, Trondheim University of Science and Technology, the Nanyang Technological University, Singapore and the Free University of Berlin.

As Research Officer of the WAACE project, Ian travelled throughout Western Australia, recording the speech of Aboriginal children and others on numerous research trips and providing definitive descriptions of Aboriginal English. At Edith Cowan University he headed a research team of Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal membership, which continued to research aspects of the history, genres and educational implications of Aboriginal English over ten years, attracting research funding of over 1.23 million dollars. Much of this research was carried on in collaboration with colleagues from the Education Department of W.A. and it led to the development of innovative policies and resources in two-way bidialectal education which have continued to influence generations of teachers of Aboriginal students.

ADMINISTRATIVE NOTE

A linguistic survey of the language problems of Aboriginal primary school children in Western Australia was begun in 1973 by the University of Western Australia’s Department of Anthropology, under the sponsorship of the Australian Department of Aboriginal Affairs and the University. The investigation (the Western Australian Aboriginal Children’s English, or WAACE, Project) ran until 1979.

The project had four aims:

- to provide a description of the dialectal varieties of English spoken by Aboriginal children throughout primary schooling
- to pinpoint problem areas which Aboriginal children may have had learning ‘standard’ Australian English
- to discover bilingualism among Aboriginal school children
- to locate communication problems between teachers and Aboriginal children

Schools which had a sizable Aboriginal enrolment were visited by two members of the research team, who recorded groups of Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal pupils talking about a range of topics and also conducted individual interviews. The intention was to elicit stages of grammatical development. The schools visited were in Midvale in metropolitan Perth; Rangeway, Tardun, Narrogin, Katanning, Gnowangerup and Quairading in the South West/Great Southern region; Cue, Leonora, Meekatharra and Wiluna in the Goldfields region; Carnavon and East Carnavon in the Gascoyne; Jigalong, Nullagine, Marble Bar, Port Hedland, Roebourne, Strelley, Wittenoom, Yandeeyarra and Onslow in the Pilbara; and Broome, Derby, Fitzroy Crossing, La Grange, Halls Creek, Kununurra, Wyndham, Lombadina, Camballin, Gogo, One Arm Point and Beagle Bay in the Kimberley.

The research team comprised

- Dr Susan Kaldor, Senior Lecturer in Anthropological Linguistics, University of Western Australia and principal investigator for the project
Ian Malcolm, Senior Lecturer in Charge, English Department, Mount Lawley
Teachers’ College and associate investigator for the project
S Mueke, research linguist
Anne Davidson, graduate research assistant Kaye Malcolm, research assistant

The ‘Development of English Verb Structure in the Speech of Aboriginal Primary School Children 1981-1983’ project was conducted in Onslow as a sequel to the WAACE Project.
This sequel project was funded by the Commonwealth Department of Education’s Education Research and Development Committee. (A pilot phase in 1980 was funded with a University of Western Australia Research Grant.) The WAACE Project described the differences between the English dialect that Aboriginal children used and the standard English dialect used in schools. Findings would enable the development of programs which would support children’s acquisition of the standard dialect and enhance their participation in all aspects of school activity. The Onslow Sequel Project aimed to identify the exact developmental sequences in children’s acquisition of standard Australian English, to enable the production of useful materials for schools and teacher education.

Dr Susan Kaldor and Ian Malcolm were the senior investigators in the Sequel Project.
Teachers and Aboriginal Teaching Assistants from Onslow Primary School provided research assistance through recording the speech of 7 Aboriginal pupils at intervals over a period of one year.
