Title: Investigating the social welfare indicators of Aboriginal Regional Art Centres : pilot study / Trudie
Cooper, Susanne Bahn and Margaret Giles
Copyright date: Joondalup, W.A. : Edith Cowan University, [2012?]
Physical descrip: 72 pages : colour illustrations, portraits
Annotation: "This report describes the findings of a project that analysed the impact of a new art centre in the Midwest region of Western Australia. The art centre serves six communities within an area classified by the Accessibility/Remoteness Index of Australia system (ARIA) as 'very remote'. The project examines both the achievements and challenges faced by the new Art Centre and provides a preliminary analysis of the applicability of established measurement methods developed in different disciplines and some possible directions for future research. The primary purpose of the Art Centre project was to support the artistic development and marketing opportunities for groups of Aboriginal artists in the upper Murchison region. The evaluation drew data from a total of fifty three interviews with artists, community stakeholders and Wirnda Barna staff, and developed social profiles of the communities served by the Art Centre. We found that the project had achieved diverse positive social welfare, personal, social, community as well as health and well-being outcomes." -- Taken from executive summary
