Two Youngsters get Jobs

"On Their Merits"

The

The Madguy Argus recently reported that two teenaged Aborigines have begun careers with the Nestles firm at Smithtown.

Mavia Lang of Burnt Bridge, began work in Nestles office, and eventually will undertake a course of training as an accounting machine operator.

Dallas Thompson, formerly of the Board's boys' home at Kinchela and a student at Kempsey High School, has commenced an apprenticeship in one of the metal trades. He started off as a labourer.

The factory manager, Mr. H. Coleman, emphasised that the two young people had been engaged strictly
on their merits.

"They made their applications in the normal way and these were considered in the normal way," he said.
"They have been employed without discrimination—one way or another."

The only reason why applicants of Aboriginal descent had not been previously considered for employment was that they had not applied for jobs.
