APPENDIX VI.

The last estimate of the number of Aborigines in the colony was 1,908. Population returns have been received from the more important stations, and the number of births and deaths recorded; and it appears that the decrease during the year 1864-5 was not large. Attention is directed to the Fourth Report of the Central Board, where full particulars are given of the increase and decrease at the principal stations during the year 1863-4.
