

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	vi
Introduction	1

PART ONE

Chapter 1 – Constructing the Aborigine	17
Chapter 2 – Positioning ‘part-Aboriginal’ people	29
Chapter 3 – Challenging the colonial Aborigine	37
Chapter 4 – Quantifying Aboriginality by acculturation, adaptation and allegiance	53
Chapter 5 – The changing meaning of Aboriginal identity	69
Chapter 6 – Shifts in the social and political context	85
Chapter 7 – Discovering and reconstructing Aboriginal identity	98
Chapter 8 – Beyond the discourse	116

PART TWO

Chapter 9 – Confirmation of Aboriginality	131
Chapter 10 – Conflict, community and the regulation of Aboriginal identity.	144
Chapter 11 – Community discourse on the Confirmation of Aboriginality and Aboriginal identity: a case study	153
Chapter 12 – Researching the politics of identity	163
Chapter 13 – Identity journeys: when Aboriginal heritage was always known	183
Chapter 14 – Identity journeys: discovering Aboriginal heritage	196
Chapter 15 – The continuing contest over the definition of Aboriginal identity	206
Chapter 16 – Learning and performing an Aboriginal identity	226
Chapter 17 – Tensions at the cultural interface	239
Chapter 18 – Aboriginal identity, community and social media	251
Concluding remarks	263
References	274
Index	288