

List of contents

Guido Magnaguagno Foreword	7
Claus Volkenandt & Christian Kaufmann Introduction	9
Jon Altman A brief social history of Kuninjku art and the market	19
PART 1: The local contexts of bark painting
Luke Taylor Painted energy: John Mawurndjul and the negotiation of aesthetics in Kuninjku bark painting	31
Apolline Kohen An arts adviser perspective on producing art for Balanda	47
Jon Altman Brokering Kuninjku art: a critical perspective on the complex processes of mediating with the market	53
Judith Ryan Rarrk on bark: John Mawurndjul's medium of power and beauty	61
PART 2: Identifying contexts of art
Howard Morphy Art theory and art discourse across cultures: the Yolngu and Kunwinjku compared	75
Claus Volkenandt Why we need an intercultural art history	103

Kitty Zijlmans

Intercultural perspective as context: beyond othering and appropriation? The case of John Mawurndjul	113
---	-----

Anne-Marie Bonnet

Dilemmata of otherness	123
------------------------------	-----

PART 3: Between Europe and Australia: from local to global*Christian Kaufmann and Richard McMillan (†)*

From bark to art: Karel Kupka between Arnhem Land and Basel	137
---	-----

Sally Butler

Translating the spectacle: John Mawurndjul's intercultural aesthetic	161
--	-----

Jean-Hubert Martin

Art of the Aborigines between new-age mysticism and politics	175
--	-----

Till Förster

What is local about local art? Contemporary African artists between international art world and local life-world	183
---	-----

PART 4: Tomorrow's museums for today's art*John Onians*

30,000 years of Australian art – a neuropsychological approach	199
--	-----

Paul S.C. Taçon

The Creativity Centre : where science meets art	211
---	-----

Marianne Eigenheer

Rendering visible – new practices for old institutions	217
--	-----

Bernhard Lüthi

Recognising Indigenous Australians: a new context for art	223
---	-----

List of authors	229
-----------------------	-----

Index	xxx
-------------	-----